

For Week of March 17-21

Career Round-Up

New Internship Postings

USDA in Frederick, MD is looking for a Summer Intern for lab work. Biology, agriculture, or entomology students. Would work May-August 2008, must be in local commuting area. Learn about insects, plants, and diseases, work in lab environment, and conduct document-based research.

If interested, resume and 3 references due April 17. Come to the Career Center for more info.

American Red Cross, Central MD Chapter. Part-time, unpaid internship as research assistant. Any major, minimum GPA 3.0. Deadline to apply is July 1, 2008. College Central ID #1385122

Responsible for conducting research on missing persons through Holocaust/WWII databases and US address databases for persons believed to be in the US. Conduct research to assist with requests for historical information from chapter workers and the general public on request.

Bowie Baysox Brigade. Full - or part-time internship, unpaid. Any major, minimum GPA 2.0. Deadline to apply is May 12, 2008. College Central ID #1385329

Duties include: appearances at community events; working with marketing staff to design, develop, and implement promotional activities; work with Baysox Ticket and Group Sales departments.

New Job Postings

Business Operations Associate, Aerotek. Full-time position, any major, any job target. Salary 30K plus bonuses. College Central ID #1388077

The business operations associate is responsible for ensuring the highest level of customer service, to external customers as well as corporate and field office employees. Also is proficient in the management and collection of customer accounts receivable.

Associate Marketing Analyst, Cornerstone Financial. Full-time position, any major, any job target. College Central ID #1379408

Job duties: developing new and innovative ideas for marketing campaigns; coordinating quarterly newsletter and client correspondence; developing and refining corporate strategic marketing plan.

New Class Being Offered This Fall

The Mount is offering a new class next semester, and it's all about the future. Your future, that is.

In the fall, the Mount will launch "Career Development and Work-Life Transitions," a one-credit course open to and based in practical application. Most other schools will have courses in either career development or personal finance, but not both together.

The first half, career development, will cover areas

"Students will become more informed about the next step... it's really about yourself and transitioning out of the Mount."

The course is scheduled for Tuesdays from 3:30-4:30 p.m. It is listed with the Business Department's courses as BUS

What's Going On This Week

Be sure to check our website, www.msmary.edu/career for a full calendar of information!

Monday, March 17

Harford County Public Schools OCR: Interviews Scheduled

Drop-in Hours 1-2 p.m.

Tuesday, March 18

Enterprise Rent-a-Car OCR: Interviews Scheduled

Drop-in Hours 1-2 p.m.

Wednesday, March 19

Drop-in Hours 1-2 p.m.

Thursday, March 20

Career Center CLOSED for Easter Break

Friday, March 21

Career Center CLOSED for Easter Break

juniors and seniors of any major. It will be taught by Sabira Vohra, Director of the Career Center.

“I wanted to bring this course on-board to help students transition into life after the Mount,” she says. “This class will substantially prepare students for exiting out, especially into the world of work.”

Vohra says this course is the first of its kind, combining the areas of career development and life transition, including post-undergraduate options, resumes, and mock interviews. The second half of the course will cover topics such as employment rights, budgeting, credit reports, negotiating, decision-making, and benefit packages. For this half, Vohra hopes to have industry-specific alumni speak to the class.

“Some students have never had to budget, or don’t know what a credit report is,” Vohra explains.

345, fast search code 309089. Vohra stresses that any junior or senior is encouraged to sign up, particularly those who haven’t had much experience with these topics.

“The class will greatly benefit students who are not Business majors,” says Vohra, who is available if students have any questions.

Growing up isn’t easy, but now students can learn how to transition into life after the Mount. As you choose classes, keep this one in mind.

College Central Increases its Entry-Level Job Postings

If you don’t live in the local Mount area year-round, sometimes it can be challenging to find jobs in your home-town. Now you can find thousands of entry-level jobs across the country, thanks to a new program and database from College Central Network. This new database offers 25,000 entry-level job listings each month! If you’re from the New York City area, for example, you can search for entry-level jobs specifically in that area. Be sure to check out this great new service when you’re searching for jobs in your home-town!